FINAL CHAMBER CONCERT HELD AT GOULD ACADEMY ON WEDNESDAY, AUG. 6

On Wednesday evening, Aug. 6, the Long Lake-Sebago Chamber Players presented the second and final concert in this year's series at Gould Academy's Bingham Auditorium. Since the first concert two weeks earlier, some very intensive word-of-mouth advertising must have gone on. For, as Headmaster Richard Dolven happily noted at the outset, the audience had almost exactly doubled in size.

Once again the program was pleasantly diversified, including music for various combinations of string, woodwind, brass, and percussion instruments by composers of the 18th and 20th centuries. Because of the late arrival of one violinist, however, the order of performance did not follow the printed program. This unfortunately produced a rather top-sided arrangement with two works involving two players before intermission and two larger ensemble works after.

The now-obsolete viol da gamba was one the favorite stringed instruments of the baroque composers; today, however, solo works for this instrument are usually performed on the modern viola or cello. Helen Palmers's decision to play Bach's G major viola da gamba sonata in a transcription for double bass was not a particularly happy one. With the melody line moved to the bass register, the relationship between solo line and harpsichord accompaniment is radically altered from what the composer must have had in mind. The naturally intractable qualities of the double bass in fast continued on Page Eight

DOUG VAIL EXHIBIT AT BETHEL LIBRARY

The art exhibit for the month of August at the Bethel Library is the work of the late Doug Vail of Newry.

Doug, who was an ardent outdoorsman, expressed his love of nature through the "woodburnings" he did. He would use pine boards which are easier to burn on but some times he would have to use plywood which is hard to burn on. He used a wood-burning pen and a soldering iron for the darker and shaded places. Sometimes he would sketch his drawing on paper first, other times he would make patterns and emboss them on the wood. For the frames that he carved from wood, he used a butane torch. He also did wood carvings and signs.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS ENJOY BEACH CLUB PICNIC AUG. 10

Oxford County Democrats enjoyed a later afternoon picnic at the Bethel Inn Beach Club on Songo Pond, hosted by the Bethel Democratic Town Committee on Sunday, Aug. 10.

Vice-chairman and State Representative James W. Hong of Stow chaired the County Democratic Committee meeting following the picnic. He introduced fellow legislators, Emily Saunders of Bethel and Emile Fraser of Mexico and much of the discussion centered on activities of the 107th Legislature.

County Committee secretary Pauline Dawson of Mexico, volunteered her home as the location of the September County meeting. Bethel town chairman, Paul McGuire, read a telegram from U. S. Senator Muskie extending his good wishes to the gathering.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

There were people present at the Selectmen's meeting Monday night expressing concern as to the water quality being used in the village area. They were told tests are being taken on a regular basis, none of which have indicated unsafe conditions. There is a problem of debris filtering into the source which is being corrected.

A person interested in establishing an aviation repair service at the local air strip was present. He was assured of support of the Board and Manager but more information was needed. It is evident a vote of the townspeople will be needed prior to any commitment.

A request to maintain a part of the Bird Hill Road was discussed. The person involved has been requested to appear at a meeting and outline his needs.

Merton Brown, Town Clerk, officially assumed his duties Wednesday, Aug. 13.

The Planning Board, Wednesday night, considered a plan for housing for the elderly on Evergreen Road.

I. Q. TESTS UNDER ATTACK BY EDUCATIONAL GROUPS

A task force of the National Education Association, under the chairmanship of a Maine guidance counselor, is the latest educational group to attack the validity and usefulness of the I. Q. test.

The Task Force, headed by Charles Sanders, Millinocket guidance counselor and a past president of the Maine Teachers Association, made its report to the NEA convention meeting this summer in Los Angeles.

The Task Force report, which has been under development for the past three years, was made public shortly after the National Association of Elementary School Principals devoted an entire issue of its prestigious magazine to I. Q., under the heading "The Myth of Measurability." There have also been hot debates recently over the claims of some psychologists that I. Q. tests reveal continued on Page Four

NEARLY 80 ATTEND MEETING OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY AT EAST BETHEL CHURCH

Approximately 80 members and guests attended the monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held at the East Bethel Church Thursday evening, August 7. The Society met at this historic meeting house built by the Baptists something around 1830 upon the invitation of the East Bethel Church association which is attempting to completely restore the structure. The kerosene lamps and chandelier were aglow and the church was attractively decorated with several bouquets of flowers.

A short business meeting preceded the program. Floribel Haines, Ruth Verville and Richard Fraser were selected for the nominating committee. Following this Ned Hastings served as organist and all sang hymns typical of ones that might have been heard in a Baptist church in the 19th century.

With the proper atmosphere apparently created, Margaret Joy Tibbitts, Society president, delivered a most informative paper entitled "Early Bethel Church Life" in which she sketched the development of the Congregational and Baptist faiths in this town. Miss Tibbitts relied heavily upon Church records for her presentation and the impression created was one of perseverance and struggle to establish religion on a firm footing in Bethel. There were as she noted problems with ministers such as Rev. Daniel Gould, for example, with finances and the wayward. But after somewhat shaky beginnings, Bethel churches eventually grew and prospered.

Refreshments of fruit punch, cookies and brownies were served following the meeting.

BETHEL AREA 6TH GRADERS TO BE LOCATED AT

R. C. FOSTER/TELSTAR BLDGS.

MSAD #44 sixth grade students from the Bethel/Locke Mills area will be attending classes in either the R. C. Foster School, or in a classroom at Telstar with the start of school on Sept. 3. Generally speaking, students at the two locations will be drawn from the same geographical areas as when school closed in June, with such exceptions as transportation schedules may necessitate. Questions should be directed to the Principal, Crescent Park School, on or after Monday, Aug. 18.

As August progresses toward autumn many of the mornings become misty over the ponds. This mist looks like smoke curling as it plays tag with the breezes. I like to watch its whiteness as it glistens like spider webs touched with dew.

As I visited "my" tree by the old pasture bars today there were many things of interest. Our valley is full of trees and legally this one is not really mine. I own it only by watching it day after day and because its where I pass by it at this special place on the road. I treasure it and watch it leave out in spring and color in fall when I wonder each day if it will bring more rubies for it's a beautiful maple. Probably it has been photographed more than any single tree around.

Near it today stood the Turtlehead. These flowers are more odd and striking than pretty, but like its neighbor, the Jewel-weed, the bees love it. Both flourish luxuriantly. The latter profusely hangs with brilliant jewel-like flowers. By the roadside; they are yellow but those I brought home from the island are a gorgeous pink with large lovely ear-drops on tall robust plants. At all times they are filled with the hum of bees and humming birds. Today I watched a bird sitting on a particular flower, dressing her plumage. Her inscrutable, brilliant dark eyes flashed quick glances all around; no motion escaped her. After some time she flew up on buzzing wings inspecting me, until satisfied. Then she visited the flowers. The beat of her wings was so rapid there was only a blur. They seem especially attracted to red, orange or pink flowers. With the first frost of autumn little Ruby-throat will leave us for it can stand little cold.

By my tree "The golden rod is yellow..." the asters approach their season and Joe-Pye-weed with its tint of crushed raspberry really reigns supreme.

Many days now are garden days. Corn stands tall, the ears filling day by day, growth slackens and days shorten. The garden is full and overflowing and we are always busy. It is now that we eat up, freeze up, or can up.

This is also time of rich music if your ears are tuned to the sound of honey bees, humbees, crickets, and myriads of small insects. This, too, unhurried and rich greeted me at my tree; music low pitched and steady; varied by the calls of red-winged blackbirds from near by. From a distant grove came the querulous calls of the young grackles testing their voices.

Meadow music has not been recorded by man-made discs, but today I took a personal recording to carry home with me which will surely out rank some of the man-made discs. Doesn't M-A-N mean "make a noise"?

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen have returned from an enjoyable trip to Jackson and surrounding places. One of the interesting visits was Moxie Falls.

I had several visitors this week many of whom came to add best wishes for a happy birthday; they were Mr. and Mrs. Montie Millett, Pillsfield, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. William Slattery, West Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carey, South Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Lauri Tamminen, Yarmouth; David Holt, Dexter; Sharon Jordan, Orono; Ann and Fay Holt, Eleanor Inman, Zilpha DiArenzo, local; and a pupil from New Hampshire whom I had not seen in thirty years. I don't remember her married name but in school days she was Sirkka Saari.

I was well remembered with 30 cards and gifts. One gift which I shall treasure was a large plate with a sketch of "my" little school house and the names of all my pupils.

On Tuesday we visited Ernest and Ina Mundt at their cottage on Twitchell Pond.

Ardell and Duane Hayes called on their folks at the Hayes Homestead over the week end and Duane's twin daughters spent a day with their Grammie and Grandpa.

Tonda Mills, Shapleigh, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis. Sunday evening, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mills and

The Willing Workers are having a combination food and rummage sale on Thursday, Aug. 23, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. at South Woodstock Union Church. Donations for the sale will be gratefully received by Mrs. Nicholas Clements, Mrs. Harold Wilbur Jr. or any of the Willing Workers members you may desire to contact. They will see that they reach the church on time. Watch for the signs for the sale. Posters will be out at several places.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway called on Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Davis Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Davis also had Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bryant as callers Saturday morning.

Olive Davis attended the West Paris Grange CWA night Thursday night.

Many campers are at their cottages on North Pond this week.

Franklin Grange

August 4 Franklin Grange observed Gentlemen's Night with Harris Hathaway in charge of the meeting. The following filled the chairs: Master, Paul Billings, Bear River; Overseer, Carl Brooks; Lecturer, Richard Felt; Steward, Norman Mills; A. S., Harris Hathaway; L. A. S., Mark Mills; Chaplain, Russell Yates, Bear River; G. K., Clayton Blake, Bear River; Treas., Ellis M. Davis, Sec., Reynold Jordan; Ceres, Bob Billings, Bear River; Pomona, Roy Day; Flora, Preston Cobb.

The following program was carried out by the Lecturer: 1. Song, Auld Lang Syne; 2. Roll Call, What looked best at the Bicentennial, which was well responded to by each member; 3. Reading, "America, My Home"; 4. Reading, "Farm Memories"; Richard Felt; 5. Song, "Church in the Wildwood"; 6. Slides were shown by Harris Hathaway of his travels in the south which were very interesting; Song, "Home Sweet Home"; 8. Closing thoughts by Russell Yates and Richard Felt; 9. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Charlotte Cole and Esther Pierce. They were each presented a gift from the Grange.

There were seven visitors from Bear River Grange, Newry and 18 from Franklin Grange. Refreshments of donuts and coffee and cookies, sandwiches and potato chips were served with cold drinks on the side.

brother, Ernest, came for her and visited with us for a time.

Doris Hayes, Fay Holt, Zilpha DiArenzo and I attended the show at Deertrees Theater in Harrison on Saturday evening.

Since Spring I have tried to find the book "Walking in America" by Donald Zochert, a gift from a friend and this week it came. "Through wilderness, countryside and rural village, Henry David Thoreau, John Audubon, John Muir and others celebrate the pleasure of Walking in America". I'm sure I'll enjoy going with them I have walked so little this summer.

After the parade, Lettie Brooks, Olive Davis, Miriam MacAllister sold home cooked food and Ethel MacKenzie had a white elephant table.

The Grange exhibited many old things they had in the halls as an autographed quilt of the early days, old Bible, pictures, etc. was cared for by the Master, Stephen Seames who put in long hours during this last week in the terrific heat which was unprecedented since 1901, so we were told. I don't remember it, that must be correct.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cole and three girls arrived at Cozy Nook Friday night for a 10 day vacation. They are entertaining friends Mr. and Mrs. William Luce of Centre Hall, Pa., for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Davis were at Oxford Pomona at Frederick Robie Hall, Tuesday evening.

Oxford Pomona #2 met with Frederick Robie Tuesday evening when the fifth degree was conferred on a candidate. Being a hot night the attendance was not quite as large.

The coming events announced were C.W.A. meeting September 2, when the needle work will be judged on Pomona level so be sure to get your hand work in to the committee. The new C.W.A. committee is Mrs. Grace Lord, Bolsters Mills; Mrs. Margery Coleman, Oxford and Mrs. Hattie Harmon, Norway. The offices will be filled by C.W.A. members.

The 100th anniversary will be held at Paris Grange Hall the 13th of September. It will be an open meeting so they expect a big group to be present. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock. Many of the State officers are expected to attend this meeting.

State Master Ronald Bagley will be present at Paris Grange on August 20 when the public is invited to attend a meeting when government affairs will be discussed in the evening. He hopes for a large interested group to attend this meeting.

Rev. Barbara Huse, Pastor
Bethel Church of the Nazarene

Some people say, "My life is my own. It is nobody's business where I go and what I do. No one is going to tell me what to do. No one is going to push anything down my throat. When I am ready, I will decide on my own what to do."

The Bible says, "So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God." Romans 14:12.

Perhaps we had better think it over. There is a day of accounting coming for all of us.

Letters to the Editor

Middle Intervale Road
Aug. 12, 1975

To the Editor:

It is regrettable that Bethel does not yet have the 24-hour medical care for which we had hoped.

My late neighbor was stricken with a heart attack on Monday evening, 11th August, and none of the resident Bethel physicians called were willing or able to attend him.

The Bethel Fire Dept., however, is to be commended for their prompt attention and willingness to offer help and first aid.

Yours truly,
Paul H. Wilson

I. Q. TESTS UNDER ATTACK

differences in the average intelligence of racial and ethnic groups. The NEA report finds that the content of the typical group I. Q. test is biased against those who are economically disadvantaged and linguistically different. "In fact," the report states, "group intelligence tests are potentially harmful to all students." They can become a "self-fulfilling prophecy" with students turning out the performance that is expected of them.

Behind the growing distrust of I. Q. testing is the belief that there is no way to test innate intelligence separate from the experience of the individual. Since I. Q. tests are standardized on the experience of the educated middle class, they are not valid for varying population groups across the country, these critics contend.

The NEA Task Force report calls on teachers to refuse to administer tests which they find to be biased and to seek a voice in the kind of tests that are used in their school systems. It comes out flatly against the use of tests for tracking students.

The National Elementary Principal goes beyond the Task Force report to spell out objections to the validity of the tests for any students. It carries an article by Jerrold R. Zacharias, physics professor retired from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and known to educators for his revisions of the physics program. He states his belief that "our efforts to measure so-called intelligence have had an imprisoning and destructive effect on the lives of children." He challenges the validity of the individual questions on which the sophisticated mathematical analyses are based.

One of the sources of the attack on the I. Q. tests has been the disproportionately large number of Chicano children assigned in California schools to classes for the mentally retarded on the basis of the tests. The practice has been altered as a result of a court order.

The National Elementary Principal traces the use of tests for social and economic reasons, for selecting and classifying people. An article by Leon J. Kamin reports that early I. Q. tests were used to establish the undesirability of eastern European immigrants at a time when they were flooding the American labor market. One intrepid psychologist went to Ellis Island in 1912 at the invitation of the United States Public Health Service and on the basis of tests standardized for Americans found that 63% of the Jews, 80% of the Hungarians, 79% of the Italians, and 87% of the Russians were "feeble-minded." The findings, Kamin said, influenced subsequent immigration laws.

Beyond the I. Q. tests is the issue of standardized testing of school achievement. The NEA task force finds that some measurement and evaluation in education is necessary. All testing, the Task Force said, should go beyond mere classifying. In a summary statement, it declared "the major use of tests should be to improve instruction—to diagnose learning difficulties and to plan learning activities in response to learning needs. Tests must not be used to label and classify students.... to perpetuate an elitism, or to maintain some groups or individuals 'in their place' near the bottom of the socioeconomic ladder. In short, tests must not be used in ways that will deny any student full access to equal educational opportunity."

BILL COHEN
From Congress

Two hundred years ago, Thomas Jefferson wrote: "I view great cities as pestilential to the morals, the health, and the liberties of man." Few of today would argue with Jefferson's assertion. In recent years, we have seen our cities—once the center of political power in this country sink deeper and deeper into a chaotic and violent state which threatens their continued survival.

I recently read a tragic story which epitomizes the crisis proportions that crime has reached in our society. A 45-year-old restaurant worker was driving home after work late one night in New York. He was travelling on a major cross-town expressway when one of his tires went flat. He stopped and was attempting to repair the tire when another man suddenly appeared and assaulted him. The two men struggled by the roadside for a moment before the restaurant worker broke free and attempted to flee across the highway. As he fled, apparently dazed by his assailant's blows, he was struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver.

We read similar horror stories every day throughout the country. A by-stander at a "Human Kindness Day" rally in Washington has his eye put out by a thug with an ice pick while thousands of people look on silently. A man in Boston who stops to help a young woman and a man she said was ill is beaten up and nearly killed by those he tried to aid.

The Gallup Poll tells us that one household in every four in the United States has been hit by a crime at least once during the past 12 months, with either property stolen or a member of the household a victim of an assault or mugging. Crime is perceived as the nation's number one problem, but so far our efforts to deal with the crisis have been largely unsuccessful.

We, in Maine have always felt we had a greater freedom, a greater individuality than our cousins in the great cities of the United States. We believed that the basic respect for the beauty of life and the gifts of God that we preserved in Maine somehow protected us from the tribulations of urban America.

The sad fact is, however, that Maine and other rural states are no longer immune from the ravages of crime. The latest FBI figures show crime is increasing everywhere, but it is increasing fastest in rural America. Statistics for Maine show that during the last six months of 1974 there were 22 murders and 82 rapes reported in our State. There were 172 robberies, 697 cases of aggravated assault, and a shocking 7,298 burglaries and 11,352 larceny cases known to have occurred in that six month period. Of even greater concern, is the high proportion of crimes involving young people. Of all solved crimes in the last half of 1974 in Maine, 32.5 percent were committed by juveniles. While crime in Maine has still not reached the levels of more urbanized states, this kind of serious crimes is intolerable.

Maine has recently launched a Uniform Crime Reporting network to give law enforcement officers the factual help they need in determining where crimes occur and how they can be prevented. The UCR network should prove a useful tool in the State's fight against increased crime. In Washington, meanwhile, the House Judiciary Committee, of which I am a member, is considering legislation to revamp the federal Criminal Code and bring it up to date. I am hopeful this legislation will, in its final form, contain provisions both for swift and sure punishments for those who break our Federal laws and provisions for the innovative rehabilitation programs needed to turn lawbreakers into law-abiding citizens.

At present, I am sponsoring legislation which would impose additional mandatory jail sentences for persons committing felonies with deadly firearms. Earlier, I was the principal sponsor of the "Speedy Trials Act," which has since become law. The law is designed to guarantee that those accused of crimes are tried quickly for their offenses and to insure that they are neither left to languish in our jails without benefit of trial nor set free in the streets prematurely.

Those of us who live in Maine can no longer think of ourselves as being removed from the nation's crime problems. Crime in Maine may not be as prevalent nor as savage as in other places, but the newest crime statistics show that Maine is immune from the cities' troubles. Crime is Maine's problem, too, and it will be up to all of us to help find a solution.

Mrs. Violet Bennett, Bryant Pond, moved this week to the home of Mrs. Grace Morrill, Mason.

Mrs. Addie Bates, Bangor, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Marrah Webster and Miss Mina Stevens.

Robert Blake returned from Stephens Memorial Hospital, Friday, after being a patient there a week.

Mrs. Ellen Sweeney and Glen, Buena Park, Calif., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burris, Riverside Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. David Keniston and Heather, West Minot, spent the week end at the home of Mr. Keniston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keniston.

Leland Kimball and his mother, Flora, of Lee, have been spending a few days in town with relatives and visited on Tuesday with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gorman. Mr. Kimball is a member of the faculty of Lee Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Perkins attended a family get-together at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Trenholm, Kingfield, over the week end. A brother, Charles Trenholm and son, Mark, Boulder, Colo., and a sister, Mrs. Michael Benincasa, her husband and children, Michael and Jimmy, were also visiting at the Trenholm home.

The public owns nearly all under water lands in Maine—a right rooted in the laws of the original Massachusetts Bay Colony. Without "right, title or interest," required by the 1974 court decision and state regulations, no private individual may legally build permanent structures on submerged lands, or even apply for a state permit.

Affected by the decision were applicants under the Coastal Wetlands Law and Great Ponds Act whose proposed structures or activities would extend beyond low tide, or a great ponds' high water mark. A great pond is any natural body of water larger than 10 acres, or any manmade water body larger than 30 acres where there are two or more shoreline owners.

Under the new law, Great Ponds or Coastal Wetlands applicants who seek to build wharves, piers, or other structures for private use may be granted easements free of charge and without further application. Persons whose permanent structures were already in place before the law's May 10, 1975, effective date will not need to apply. Easements become final when their corresponding application has been approved by the Board of Environmental Protection.

Utilities will ordinarily be charged half the rate other commercial users would pay. Persons seeking to dredge the bottom of a great pond or subtidal land will be charged by the cubic yard at the current market price.

As the case with easements, leases negotiated with the Bureau of Public Lands will only become final after their corresponding Great Ponds or Coastal Wetlands application has been approved by the Board of Environmental Protection.

Week in Oxford Co.

The class of 1945, Stephens High School, Rumford, held their 30th reunion at the Town and Country Motor Inn in Shelburne, N. H., Saturday. Rev. Raymond Carigan of Texas, a member of the class, gave the blessing at the banquet and conducted memorial exercises in remembrance of deceased members.

Parking meters on Norway's Main Street have been removed by town crews. The removal was approved by a recent special town meeting.

A main electrical line was snapped late Saturday night and several thousand residents in the communities of Rumford, Dixfield, Canton, Roxbury, Andover, Byron, Mexico, and Rangeley were without electricity from 10 p. m. Saturday to 4 a. m. Sunday as Central Maine Power Company crews made repairs to a feeder line which travels 22 miles from Livermore Falls to Rumford, Bethel, and nearby communities were without power for about a two-hour period the same evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Barrows of South Paris were honored with an anniversary party Sunday afternoon at the home of their niece and husband, Mary and Clifford Parsons, on the Buckfield Road. The occasion was the Barrows 60th wedding anniversary. Mr. Barrows is one of the better known businessmen in the twin towns. Mrs. Barrows was active in the business world for many years.

tions have been approved by the Board of Environmental Protection.

All other users, including municipalities, public utilities and businesses, will negotiate terms and fees for a lease with the Bureau of Public Lands. Annual fees will be charged to submerged lands leaseholders, and will be due each October 1.

Fees for bonafide municipal users will be one dollar per year. Commercial users will pay annual fees based on the value of the land. There is no charge in the case of small commercial fishing industries.

Utilities will ordinarily be charged half the rate other commercial users would pay. Persons seeking to dredge the bottom of a great pond or subtidal land will be charged by the cubic yard at the current market price.

As the case with easements, leases negotiated with the Bureau of Public Lands will only become final after their corresponding Great Ponds or Coastal Wetlands application has been approved by the Board of Environmental Protection.

VAIL FAMILY REUNION

The descendants of David and Alice Shields Vail held their annual Vail family reunion at the Bear River Grange Hall at Newry on Sunday, August 3, with 80 members and guests in attendance.

The eldest member present was Thomas "Fitz" Vail of St. Petersburg, Fla.; and the youngest member attending was Jennifer Bourque of Needham, Mass. The member who came from the greatest distance to attend was Mrs. Polly Browne of the Republic of Panama, where she and her husband, James, are members of the Hogar Missionero.

A notice was posted to advise that one of the members was a patient at the Maine Medical Center and that he would enjoy receiving cards and letters. His address is Francis H. Vail III, Richards Wing, Room 406, Maine Medical Center, 22 Bramhall Street, Portland, Maine 04102.

The highlight of the day was the awarding of prizes consisting of two matching bandana quilts, and a patchwork quilt made by the eldest member, Thomas "Fitz" Vail, of St. Petersburg, Fla. The recipient of the set of bandana quilts was Francis H. Vail, Sr., of East Stoneham; and the patchwork quilt was received by Harold Jarvis of Rumford. In addition to the quilts, there was also a cash door prize which was received by Donna Ray of Dedham, Mass.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Francis H. Vail, Sr., East Stoneham; Vice President, William Vail, Sr., Norway, Mass.; and Secretary-Treasurer, Merle Basoulie, of Dedham, Mass.

CHALLENGE

In order that the day designated to honor the working men and women of this country be suitably observed in the Town of Bethel with a public gathering, and that their organization might divest itself of any non-athletic designations or reputations, THE BETHEL DEMOCRATS DO HEREBY CHALLENGE MEMBERS OF THE OPPOSITION, namely the BETHEL REPUBLICANS, TO A PUBLIC CONTEST, in the form of a softball game on the BETHEL COMMON or the GOULD FIELD on LABOR DAY, the first day of September, 1975, at a mutually agreeable hour. In order that there be a financial incentive to play, the BETHEL DEMOCRATS suggest that a hat be passed amongst the spectators with the purse going to the team emerging victorious. The local DEMOCRATS boasting known stars such as Emily "The Rep" Saunders, Merton "T. C." Brown, Paul "Chief" McGuire, Cathy "Tanglefoot" Newell, Gene "Catfish" Kelly and Tribe, Celia "Sluggo" Gorman, Mike "Hot Dog" O'Donnell, as well as some yet-to-be disclosed talent have set the condition that only REGISTERED PARTY MEMBERS may be on the rosters, and that all players listed on the rosters must play. Paul "Chief" McGuire has been designated as Democratic Team Captain and expects to meet with the opposition to agree upon rules to insure a fair contest.

Association will meet at the picnic grounds for a cook-out supper at 6:00 on Thursday, Aug. 21. Each one is to bring something for the supper, his own utensils, and a chair if wanted. In case of rain the meeting will be at the town hall.

Debbie, Alan and Gary Dunham are presently on a trip to Washington. Brian is working at the A-frame village.

The Ladies Circle will hold their meeting Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 20, at the Sunday School room. The word for the month is Angel.

The town was extremely saddened by the sudden death of Bobby Osgood and wishes to extend its sincerest sympathy to his children and other members of his family. Bob was well liked and will be missed.

PESTICIDE CITED AS HUMAN HEALTH HAZARD

by John A. S. McGlennon, Regional Administrator, U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The Environmental Protection Agency has issued a "notice of intent to suspend" the registration of pesticide products containing chlordane and heptachlor. The action authorized by the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), was taken to protect public health. These chemicals have been found to pose an imminent cancer hazard.

Chlordane and heptachlor are commonly used for home, lawn and garden pest control. The uses that have been exempted from the suspension order are termite control by ground insertion and the dipping of roofs and tops of non-food plants. Use of both these chemicals had already been prohibited or severely restricted by state laws in all six New England states.

In November of last year, EPA issued a "notice of intent to cancel" the registration of these chemicals. At that time, the Agency cited data concerning the persistence of these chemicals in human tissues, including stillborn infant tissues and human milk. EPA also cited studies showing that chlordane and heptachlor caused cancer in test animals. Under procedures prescribed by FIFRA, Velsicol Chemical Corporation of Chicago, Ill., the sole U. S. manufacturer, representing itself and numerous formulators, who formulate, package, and sell the chemicals under various brand names, requested public hearings to contest the cancellation notice.

As part of the recent suspension action, EPA Administrator Russell E. Train noted that during the 18 months required to complete the cancellation hearings, more than 38 million pounds of heptachlor and chlordane are likely to be released into the environment. In view of the potential hazard of such a release, and of new evidence which confirms and heightens the human cancer hazard posed by these chemicals, the Administrator determined that these pesticides constitute an imminent public health hazard and suspended their registrations.

In announcing the suspension action, Mr. Train also cited the following findings regarding chlordane and heptachlor and human health:

1. New human tissue studies show that heptachlor epoxide and oxychlordane—metabolites formed when heptachlor and chlordane enter the human body—were present in 97 and 98%, respectively, of people sampled.
2. The Food and Drug Administration's market basket survey reports measurable amounts of heptachlor and chlordane found in 73% of all dairy products, and 77% of all meat, fish, and poultry products sampled.
3. In 1974, more than 7.5 million pounds of these pesticides were applied in and around the home by homeowners who may expose themselves, their families, and neighbors to these chemicals by direct contact with the skin, by inhalation, by contamination of clothing, and by ingestion.
4. Results of a number of new studies uphold previous findings that these chemicals do induce cancer in test animals.

There are approximately 20 formulators of chlordane/heptachlor products in New England, most of which are expected to appeal the suspension. Under procedures prescribed by FIFRA, the formulators will receive expedited hearings and a final ruling will be made before the end of this year. If the suspension order is upheld, there are a number of substances that can be used in place of chlordane and heptachlor for pest control. For lawns and shrubbery, acceptable substitutes which are widely available include carbaryl, lindane, and malathion. For ticks on pets, substitutes include carbaryl, DDVP, and lindane. For ants in houses, substitutes include baygon, DDVP, and methoxychlor; for flies, DDVP and lindane; for roaches, baygon and malathion. The best way to find an acceptable substitute is to read the labels on available products and choose one which is designed to control specific pests, under conditions existing in your home and garden. Also, the Cooperative Extension Service can provide advice on choosing the right pesticide.

This suspension notice should not cause disposal problems for people with supplies of these products. Normal use of small quantities of these chemicals in accordance with label directions is an acceptable means of disposal. However, if you wish to dispose of rather than use remaining stocks of chlordane or heptachlor, you should not dump them into drains, sewer systems, streams, ponds, or other water supplies. Small quantities (less than five pounds or one gallon) may be wrapped in several layers of newspaper and disposed of through routine trash collection, or buried at least 18 inches deep in places where they will not leach into water supplies. Larger quantities should be taken to state-approved sanitary landfills specially designated for disposal of hazardous materials.

In conclusion, I want to emphasize that although this suspension action was based on "imminent human cancer hazard," the major threat is the introduction of an additional 38 million pounds of chlordane/heptachlor into the environment. There is simply no need to panic about remaining supplies of these pesticides.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Bergeron, and daughters, Denise and Sylvia, of Becket, Mass., are spending a few days at Tom Hardy's.

The Sesqui-Centennial Celebration was well-attended with people from Berlin, Milan, Dummer, Errol, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Bethel, Maine, Andover, Norway, Rumford, Colebrook, Livermore Falls and Rangeley attending.

The parade was really nice with a band from Farmington dressed in Indian costumes. There was music in the evening by the Adams family orchestra for dancing in the yard. Every one enjoyed the day and many remarked what a nice celebration it was.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Petrie, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rideout and son, Peter, spent the week end at the Jannell camp. The Petries will return to Natick, Mass., on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Brahnen, daughter, Heidi, and son, Eric, of Watertown, Mass., spent the week end at their camp.

Rolfe Bennett and family of Berlin spent the week end with his mother, Gladys Bennett.

Mrs. Annie Labbe of Berlin has spent the past week with her daughter and family, the Donald Glovers.

Dr. Parsons and Dr. Gifford of Colebrook called on the Carl Littlehales Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cole and Mrs. Ruth Noyes spent the past week with their mother, Eddie Lancaster. They will return to Copake, N. Y., Monday.

Leland McRae of Laconia spent Saturday and Sunday with his cousin, Carl Littlehale, and Marjorie.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eames and children spent Sunday evening with his aunt and uncle, the Carl Littlehales.

W. W. I BARRACKS AND AUXILIARY MET AUGUST 5

The W. W. I Barracks and Auxiliary #2943 met at the Locke Mills picnic area for their regular August 5 Tuesday meeting at 11 o'clock with 18 members in attendance. A table was reserved by Commander Albert Skillings for this occasion.

The Auxiliary meeting opened at 1:30. It was opened without form with president Maude Danforth presiding. Secretary's and treasurer's report were read and approved.

It was reported that members attended in a body at Harry Taylor's services, also the military service held at Gilead. Flowers from both the Barracks and Auxiliary were sent.

A letter from State Senior Vice President, Elsa Seegers was read regarding a "Craft Table" being a feature held at the Council in October. Articles for same from each auxiliary will be appreciated for the good of the Department.

A banner for the meetings was discussed and was tabled until the September meeting.

The National Convention of W. W. I. was held August 30-September 3, at Machlebach Hotel in Kansas City, Mo. No delegates from Bethel attended.

Dues for 1975-76 are now due. A donation of dish towels, one from each member would be appreciated. Committee for September 2 are Adeline Dexter, Mary Bishop, Rose Taylor and Nell Valentine.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Francis Howe

HOWE - SCRIBNER

Nancy Elaine Scribner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erland D. Scribner, Albany, became the bride of Gary Francis Howe on July 12 at the Albany Congregational Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Francis Howe, Bryant Pond.

The bride's gown was of imported Chantilly lace and organdy over taffeta, fashioned with a standup collar, decorated with pearls and sequins, Empire bodice and a demi-bell skirt with a wide ruffled edge flowing into a chapel length train. A lace covered cap held a cathedral train of imported sheer illusion, edged in matching lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of red sweetheart roses, mini-carnations and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Fontana, of Brooklyn, N. Y., attired in a gown of sheer blue organdy and chantilly lace over taffeta, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids, in identical gowns of hot pink, were Miss Paula Howe, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Debbie Estes, Norway, cousin of the bride, and Miss Irene Howe, cousin of the bridegroom. They all wore white picture hats adorned with ribbons to match their gowns. Miss Karla Rothman, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore an identical outfit as the maid of honor. Miss Fontana carried a colonial bouquet of pink tinted mums, and the bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of blue tinted mums.

The bride's brother, Duane Scribner, was best man. Ushers were Stephen Howe, Wayne Howe, and Clifford Howe; uncle, cousin and brother of the bridegroom, respectively. Another cousin, Jeffrey Howe, was ring bearer.

A reception was given at the Round Mountain Grange Hall, where a wedding cake, decorated by Mrs. Henry Flint, was a feature of the buffet luncheon. Assisting at the refreshment table were Mrs. Joyce Howe and Mrs. Elouise Howe, aunts of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ruth Dunham, aunt of the bride. Miss Beth Hoyt and Miss Jo Ann Hoyt, cousins of the bride, poured punch. The cake and punch were served by the Misses Darlene McMillan and Mary Anne House, cousins of the bride.

The gift table was attended by Mrs. Bessie House and Mrs. Mary McMillan, aunts of the bride.

Following the festivities, the bridal couple left for a trip to Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Howe are graduates of Telstar Regional High School and will reside in Albany. Mrs. Howe is employed at Penley Brothers Company and the bridegroom is employed at the Bethel IGA.

FINAL CONCERT HELD

movements together with certain problems of intonation made this sonata an interesting curiosity rather than a really satisfying musical experience.

Until a few years ago, most Americans knew little of the music of Carl Nielsen (1865-1931), whom the danes have long considered their greatest composer. Today Leonard Bernstein and other conductors are playing Nielsen's symphonies with increasing frequency, but few on this side of the Atlantic are familiar with his chamber music. It was a real pleasure then to have a chance to hear his alternately sentimental and ironic Serenata-Invano splendidly performed by woodwinds, horn, and strings. The playing of Daniel Carroll, horn, and Steven Barta, clarinet, was particularly noteworthy, as was that of bassoonist Homer Pense, who had, up to this point in the series, been known to us only as stage-manager and furniture mover.

The last piece before intermission was the evening's most unusual work: Variations for Four Drums and Viola by the contemporary American Michael Colgrass. The composer has pitted the mellow voice of the viola against the percussive sounds of four small tuneable drums (rolatons) which rather resemble science-fiction of African tom-toms. For this listener the work seemed repetitious and overlong, but the spirited performance by Anne Sokol Berne, violinist, and her husband Paul, percussionist, drew the most sustained applause of the evening.

After intermission came Tele-mann's D Major Quartet for violin, cello, flute and harpsichord. Cast in the form of the baroque suite, the six alternately gay and introspective movements were charmingly played.

For many, the musical highpoint came at the end of the evening when, in recognition of the 100th anniversary of his birth, the Chamber Players presented Maurice Ravel's Introduction and Allegro for Harp, Flute, Clarinet and String Quartet. Cynthia Otis, principal harpist of the New York City Ballet, played the intricate harp solo magnificently, admirably supported by her fellow players. In every way this fascinating work, at times rather oriental in mood and always melodious, received the finest ensemble playing of the evening and brought the concert to an exciting conclusion.

So ended an all-too-brief summer concert series, but it was a beginning. With a large enough show of interest and support from residents of Bethel and surrounding communities, Gould Academy may be persuaded to undertake a similar series another year. Why not write or phone the Academy office to see what you can do to assure that even more music comes to Bethel next summer?

MRS. TIFFT NAMED AS A DIRECTOR OF A. S. H. P. R.

Rosabelle M. Tift, director public relations and personnel at Rumford Community Hospital, has been elected a member of the Board of Directors of the American Society for Hospital Public Relations by the membership of Region I of the American Hospital Association.

In making the announcement, Blossom Porte, President, ASHPR, of Pittsburgh, Pa., said "her election demonstrates the esteem in which she is held by her fellow practitioners and is testimony to the leadership she has provided her regional association during her term as president." Mrs. Tift's two-year term as president of the New England Hospital Public Relations Association ends March, 1976. Her two-year term as delegate from New England to ASHPR starts January, 1976.

The American Society for Hospital Public Relations is a professional society, affiliated with the American Hospital Association, and has a membership of some 1,000 hospital and health care public relations professionals throughout the United States and Canada.

Mrs. Tift is an accredited member of the Public Relations Society of America and member of its New England Chapter, a charter member of the Maine Public Relations Council, a member of the Committee on Public Relations for the Maine Hospital Association, and a member of the Maine Society for Hospital Personnel Administration.

Locally she is a member of the Board of Directors for the Oxford County Unit, Maine Cancer Society, and serves as coordinator for the Health Information Forum sponsored by the Rumford Community Hospital and Auxiliary.

Mrs. Tift has been employed at the Rumford Community Hospital since 1957 and was appointed to the public relations post in 1966.

Mrs. Sue Farrar and Mrs. Emily Saunders arrived home Saturday after spending over three weeks visiting in the southern states.

474 VIOLENT CRIMES DURING FIRST QUARTER OF 1975

—MAINE STATE POLICE

There were 8,092 property crimes and 474 violent crimes reported in Maine during the first quarter of 1975 says the Maine State Police's Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Unit.

Figures used in the quarterly report are submitted by law enforcement agencies throughout Maine, says Col. Donald E. Nichols, Chief of Maine State Police.

"Since there are no comparable time periods, no attempt for comparisons has been made," says Robert E. Wagner Jr., Supervisor of UCR. "However, starting with the July 1975 report, that is now being processed, there will be the capability to compare."

Larceny—the unlawful taking of property from another with the intent to deprive of ownership—accounted for 48.8 percent of all reported crime. A total valuation of $54,553 was involved in 4,182 offenses.

Burglary—also known as Breaking and entering—accounted for 40.2 percent of all reported crime from January 1 through March 31, 1975. 60% of the 3,445 burglaries were committed in residential property, accounting for 63% of the $637,126 property taken.

Of the 2,290,563, worth of property stolen, 46.7% recovered.

The Maine State Police UCR Interim report lists 465 thefts of motor vehicles valued at $897,253, with a recovery of 83%.

Of the seven murders and non-negligent manslaughters reported, four arose from family arguments, six involved firearms, and five of the victims were male.

Also during the first quarter, 103 local, county and state law enforcement officers were assaulted.

"It is important to remember that crime is a social problem and, therefore a concern of the entire community. The efforts of Law Enforcement are limited to factors within its control," said Col. Nichols.

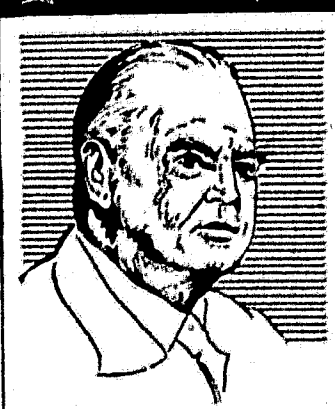

UMO PROFESSORS WILL BE IN EUROPE IN 1975-1976

Dr. Robert N. Rioux professor of romance languages at the University of Maine at Orono, is the second UMO faculty member this summer to receive a Fulbright-Hayes international exchange grant. Dr. Rioux will use the grant to lecture in Zaire during the 1975-76 academic year. Earlier, Peter Margaro of the UMO psychology department had been awarded a grant to lecture at the University of Bologna in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker spent the week at Camp Seguin, Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Johnson, Middletown, Penn., are spending two weeks at their camp at Songo Pond.

In and About Bethel

Guests today (Thursday) of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Faudi is Miss Evelyn Maguire of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Walker and Melissa spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krajczar, Maryann and Bobby, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farrar.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Faudi and their guest, Miss Hannah Mogul, were in Beecher Falls, Vt., last week visiting Phillip C. Faudi.

Mrs. Norma Jodrey returned home Saturday after spending several days in Ogunquit visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Merrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Girard were visited by his brother-in-law and sister this past week. Mr. Douglas Secor, Elaine, their sons, Tod and Kristen spent two days visiting with the Girards. Bob Girard and Doug went fishing one night at North Pond and caught six largemouth bass weighing 2 1/2 pounds each. It was a terrific evening and the fish dinner was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brown, Rebecca and Derek, have returned from Stanford, Lincolnshire, England, where they had spent six weeks visiting Mrs. Brown's relatives. While in England they toured Leicester, Lincoln, London, Coventry, Nottingham, Stratford-on-Avon, Cambridge and visited historic places. Mr. Brown was given tentative recertification credits and will have a program for use in his classes at Telstar Regional High School.

On Saturday the Bean sisters held a get-together at Camp Lacoock, Albany. Mrs. Jennie Jones, Lewiston; Mrs. Florine Bowden, Smithfield, R. I.; and Mrs. Adelaide Gibbs, Peabody, Mass.; who had been spending the week there were joined by Mrs. Edna York, North Jay and Mrs. Muriel Butters, Bethel. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. York and Mrs. Butters returned to their home on Saturday. Also spending the week at the camp was Wendell Gibbs, Peabody, Mass., and Tony Butters, Bethel, spent three days there. Alanson Bowden, Smithfield, spent Saturday night at the camp and the Bowdens and Gibbs left Sunday morning for their homes.

Mrs. Robert Girard was taken to Rumford Community hospital in the town's new ambulance Monday morning at 2:30. The ambulance service was prompt and helpful. Mr. Girard wishes to thank these men for their excellent care and professionalism. Mrs. Girard stated the ambulance crew and vehicle are an asset to the Bethel citizens and community. During Mrs. Girard's absence, Julia Edwards took care of the new baby Dean and Karen, age 2. She did a terrific job managing the household while Mr. Girard was away seeking new employment. The children, Jeff, Brenda and Jennifer were cared for by Michelle Roy, Maggie Philippon and Mr. and Mrs. Walton Hathaway.

Mr. Girard is deeply grateful for their care of his children during this difficult time. Monday evening Judge Edward Chapman, his wife Irene, and Virginia's younger brother, arrived from Center Line, Mich., to assist Mr. and Mrs. Girard. Timothy Chapman, 15, is enjoying the fishing and swimming at North Pond. The Chapman family will spend one day visiting the Atlantic ocean area and some deep sea fishing. "Good Luck Grandpa" This time pay the dollar for the fishing pool.

Two years ago he caught the biggest cod and lost out on the prize money, however he had plenty of cod to take home to Michigan.

MASON - MORGAN

In a July 14 ceremony, performed by Rev. Barbara Huse at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene, Miss Kathy J. Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy D. Morgan, Greenwood City, became the bride of Charles B. Mason III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason Jr. of Northwest Bethel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an embroidered chantilly lace and organza over taffeta gown, fashioned with a standup collar, Empire bodice and a demi bell skirt with a wide ruffled edge. Her lace cathedral length veil of sheer illusion was edged in lace matching that of her gown. She carried a bouquet of mini white carnations, pink sweet-heart roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Carol Wentworth attended her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. Judy Koskela and Miss Terri Mason, sister of the groom. They wore gowns of mint green, lavender and yellow. Junior bridesmaids were other sisters of the couple, Miss Janice Morgan, in a yellow flowered gown, and the Misses Carol and Melinda Mason, who wore matching blue flowered gowns and carried the ends of the bride's veil.

The matron of honor carried a bouquet of pink mini carnations and each bridesmaid a single rose, contrasting the color of her gown. Serving the groom's best man was Chris Murphy and ushers were David and Scott Mason, brother and sister of the groom.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Glenn Murphy. Refreshments included a beautifully decorated cake made by Mrs. Leona Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason are both graduates of Telstar Regional High School and are making their home in Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Mason III

thers of the groom and Jonathan Morgan, brother of the bride. They all wore dark blue suits with light blue shirts and white ties. Ring bearer was Master John Wentworth, nephew of the bride.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Miss Cathy Littlefield and the soloist Miss Terri Mason. Miss Debra Stearns, the groom's cousin, had charge of the guest book.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Glenn Murphy. Refreshments included a beautifully decorated cake made by Mrs. Leona Flint.
